Rural Road Safety

Juniata County Farm Bureau will hold a Rural Road Safety event on April 14 at the farm of Ray & Linda Geissinger. This event is open to any high school student in grades 9 through 12. During this event we will be reminding these young drivers to be careful on the road, especially as Spring approaches and more farmers are busy moving from field to field and may be on rural roads more than usual. Drivers should reduce their speed when driving on roads where they might encounter large farm machinery. Also, everyone is to slow down immediately when they see the Slow-Moving Vehicle emblem attached to farm vehicles. The local state police and local businesses will be assisting us in presenting these reminders to young drivers.

Jackie's Jottings.....

by Jackie Matter

Happy Spring, y'all!

The winter season is ending and, with that, there have been several meetings, activities, and conferences over the past few months. These have been opportunities for farmers to learn more about the Farm Bureau and current agricultural issues and have also been an opportunity to network and be involved in the community. Here's a little recap. Just a few weeks ago was the Young Ag Professionals Conference (YAP), open to Farm Bureau members ages 18 to 35. A few weeks after that included Farm Bureau Day for our area, Farmers Care at the Hershey Ronald McDonald House, and the Ag Promotion

Committee's T.A.S.K. Conference. The Juniata County Farm Bureau was happy to participate in Farmers Care, recognizing how farmers care about their communities, by making a donation to the Ronald McDonald House. The following week was Ag Literacy Week where volunteers donated and read "My Family's Soybean Farm" by Katie Olthoff to elementary classrooms throughout the county. There was also an online Legislative Update discussing legislative issues affecting agriculture. In addition, legislators have been holding meetings to discuss agricultural issues with their constituents and various ag organizations also have plans for upcoming meetings to discuss relevant topics to the ag community. Whew! We've been busy! Add to that the list of regular daily farm chores plus any winter "to-do" lists on the farm such as maintaining and repairing equipment and just getting ready for Spring in general and a person's schedule fills up quickly!

Thanks for reading and, until next time, remember to thank a farmer.

Hello.....from our President

Hello Members,

Hoping this finds you all well, & happy spring!! I'm sure this warm weather has everyone itching, as myself, for field work. But as we all well know, we must wait just a little bit longer. Then it will be all hands on deck and full tilt ahead! I know all too well the added challenges for the growing season. As I talked to an older gentleman the other day, he said to me, "Better just stick to the plans as best as the budget allows and it should come mostly up in the end." I found his words wise and had me wondering if we should just go forward with the uncertainty. There is something to feel blessed at the end though even with the uncertainty . This year reminds me of something I saw on utube awhile ago, it is a tribute to the Juniata County Farming Community. If you have time to watch it please do! God Bless and thank you for being a member.

"On the eighth day God created a farmer."

Ben Zook

Ag Literacy Events

Juniata County Farm Bureau connected with approximately 530 children in 3 different schools during Ag Literacy Month by reading the book "My Family's Soybean Farm" by Katie Olthoff. . March 10 Jordan Basler and Jackie Matter read to about 80 kids at the Juniata Christian School, K – 3rd grades. March 15 and 22 Dave Graybill and Jordan Bassler read to about 300 kids at Juniata Elementary School, K – 2nd grades and on March 24 Chris Hoffman read to about 150 kids at EJ Elementary School.

The children heard about Alexander and Charlie - the farm boy and his helpful dog who narrate the busy life of a modern, working soybean farm in this fun and informative picture book about a family growing one of the top crops of American agriculture. The busy days and many jobs of a farm family, the life cycle of a soybean plant, and its life as a crop getting to market are all detailed in My Family's Soybean Farm, a picture book on what it takes to grow soybeans, and how the crop becomes the many products we use every day. The family's working together is highlighted throughout, across traditional roles and with modern-day tech: Alexander watches as Mom drives the tractor in a modern cab complete with GPS technology, and later, he and Dad check the crop both with age-old techniques like walking the fields ("crop scouting") and by using the latest drone technology, too. Illustrations and information about literally every farm vehicle and other vehicles involved in growing soybeans and getting them to market are also here – including tractor and planter, sprayer, wagons and grain bins, processors, and finally, even barges and trains to get the crops to markets both domestic and around the world. Pages also show how soybeans are used in a range of products, from Charlie's bowl of dog food, to foods like soy sauce, feed for farm animals, and more.

YAP CORNER

Report on the YAP Conference by Cheyenne Hepner

In February my husband and I attended the Young Ag Professionals (YAP) Conference in Boalsburg, PA. We enjoyed different breakout sessions on leadership, Policy development, and animal hoof care amongst some other sessions that were really helpful to aid in everyday life and in the agriculture world. We ended the trip with a tour of the Penn State Dairy barns which was really neat. It was my husband's first time seeing them and my first time back since high school. We enjoyed talking to the many different agriculturalist from fruit farmers to meat growers and many more.

The PA Friends of Ag Foundation Educator's Ag Institute provides a unique learning experience for PreK-12th grade formal educators, pre-service teachers and informal community educators. The Institute provides educational tours at Penn State University as well as local family-run farms where you will learn valuable information from those involved in agriculture including farmers, university professors and agricultural leaders. The learning experience also includes hands-on classroom sessions that cover topics such as plant and animal production, agricultural research, PA state education standards, ag history, and current/future farming trends in the agricultural industry.
